DETAILED ACTION

Election/Restrictions

1. Applicant's election with traverse of Group 1 (claims 1-5) in the reply filed on 9/27/06 is acknowledged. The traversal is on the ground(s) that the Examiner has not shown serious burden in searching both inventions. This is not found persuasive because the search of each invention requires a search field that is not completely commensurate. Moreover, the search of each invention involves different search strategies.

The requirement is still deemed proper and is therefore made FINAL.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

2. The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.

3. Claim 2 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention.

Claim 2 is indefinite in that line 2 is confusing (i.e. "commonly vegetable oils).

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

4. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

Art Unit: 1761

(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

5. Claims 1-5 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) and (e) as being anticipated by any one of Ojima et al, Purdy et al, or JP 62-172086.

Any one of Ojima et al (e.g. claims, col. 6), Purdy et al (e.g. Examples), or JP 62-172086 (e.g. Abstract) disclose a product comprising a mixture which would inherently include (or provides an alternative including same as in Ojima et al) sesamin, sesamolin, and sesamol as well as other extraction components as called for in the instant claims. It is expected that the sesame extract of each of Ojima et al, Purdy et al, and JP 62-172086 would possess the same composition and attributes as called for in the instant claims due to similarities in the extraction process used to attain the composition.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

6. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

7. Claims 1-5 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over JP 62-172086.

If it is shown that the extract of JP 62-172086 would not be expected to possess the particular lignan profile and other components as called for in the instant claims, the following is to be noted. JP 62-172086 pertains to an extract of a sesame oil cake wherein same is used as an antioxidant product. It would have been well within the purview of a skilled artisan to have determined the particular lignan content and profile therein (since lignans of sesame seed are notoriously well known for their antioxidant ability) and that it follows that one skilled in the art at the time of the invention would have found it obvious to have arrived at the particularly degree of antioxidant attribute achieved through the instant invention through routine experimental optimization. It is expected that once the particular lignan profile and other components are provided for as called for in instant claim 1, the product therein would naturally exhibit the other attributes called for in claims 2-5.
